

Webinar: Complying with California's New Workplace Violence Prevention Law

Last year the California legislature passed SB 553, which requires nearly all California employees to create and implement a comprehensive Workplace Violence Prevention Plan. Now you only have until July 1 to get a compliant plan in place, complete with procedures for everything from identifying hazards and responding to problems, to investigating and reporting incidents, providing training and much more. Plus, July 1 is also the deadline for completing your first round of annual training. The clock is ticking. Are you ready? If not, this webinar is for you!

Join us to get an overview of SB 553 and learn vital information regarding how to...

- Create a written Workplace Violence Prevention Plan (Note: PIA will be providing members with a template that you can use as your starting point)
- Train employees to identify and report workplace violence hazards
- Log workplace violence incidents
- File workplace violence restraining orders
- Maintain records to demonstrate compliance with SB 553

About the speaker

Rachel Lewis is one of the experts at HR|BIZZ, the boutique HR consulting firm whose services are included with PIA membership dues. Rachel attended Washington State University, where she double majored in International Business and Marketing. After discovering her passion for HR, Rachel later went on to earn her designation as a Society for Human Resource Management Certified Professional (SHRM-CP).

Register online at piasc.org/events

Date: Tuesday, June 11, 2024

Time: 11:00 am – 12:00 pm PT

Free for PIA Members!

For California Business Only

Register at bit.ly/WVPPrevention

